

pay check for the week and we discussed the work assignments for the evening. I had Paul paint the 6 new half circle windows & Paul & Ed &

Robert

We will be here at 3:30

tomorrow To take the Garbage out

Paul

I also removed two more sets of windows from 304 & 305. More windows will be re-glazed & painted on Tuesday evening. Ed was busy at scraping paint from the woodwork in 302.

Job and I had to leave at about 7 PM so that I could change for the Delphin presentation.

Ray did not show up for work. Job & I walked up here and I put on my tails and a white tie and the top hat -- very smashing, I must say. We arrived at the Methodist parsonage at 8:15 PM and were greeted by Mrs. Bartholomay, who was somewhat rude to us. I rang the bell. She came to the door and opened it and, without any greeting or explanation, said: "wait a minute," and then she closed the door in our faces and left us standing on the porch. It was 5 degrees Fahrenheit outside, I might add. Her tone was not even friendly. I was, and am, quite frankly, shocked. She returned <sup>after a few minutes</sup> and allowed us to enter. What strange behavior. Perhaps she's like that to everyone. I don't expect red carpets, but we were, after all, the guest speakers for the evening. I didn't allow her behavior to phase me in the slightest -- the other ladies of the Delphin group were all seated in the front room & were quite prepared to "sit to an entertainment." I walked in and spotted EAG and immediately went over and shook her hand, none other's hand. Only EAG & I. I wanted her to be the focus of attention, & she was. Many familiar faces were there: EAG, BGS, Esther Pullin, Marian Sundelhurst, Emily Miller, Grace Moon, Dorothy Oliver,
